CALUMET CLUB.

• CALUMET CLUB.

HAT the Union is to the North Side and the Illinois to the West, the Calumet is to the South Side. Organized in 1878, it occupied for the first few years of its existence the residence of the late General Anson Stager, at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Eighteenth Street. As the Club grew and these quarters became too restricted for its needs, a site was selected two blocks below (on the corner of Twentieth Street) and a magnificent building of lordly proportions was erected.

It is four stories high, with fronts on both Michigan Avenue and Twentieth Street. The hall is superb, reminding one (with its broad fireplace, handsome staircase and stained glass windows,) of that of an old English manor house. To the left of the hall are the drawing rooms, with windows the whole length of the Michigan Avenue front, and to the right the offices, the cafe and the billiard room. On the second floor are the card rooms and the ball room, where from time to time during the winter months entertainments of various sorts are given to the lady friends of the members. The third floor is devoted to private apartments, and the top floor to the dining rooms and kitchens. The Club possesses a fine picture gallery, in which great interest is taken, and to which donations are constantly made.

A feature of the Calumet is its Annual Reception to Old Settlers, where the first inhabitants of Chicago meet and talk over their early experiences, and are royally entertained by the Club.

The admission fee to the Calumet is one hundred dollars, and the yearly dues eighty dollars.

The Presidents have been Messrs. Anson Stager, Edson Keith, and J. W. Doane. For 1888, the Board of Management is as follows: President, Mr. H. J. Macfarland; Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Alfred Cowles and J. J. Knickerbocker; Secretary, Mr. E. Walter Herrick; Treasurer, Mr. George L. Otis; Directors, Messrs. George F. Baldwin, E. L. Brewster, Alfred Cowles, E. Walter Herrick, J. J. Knickerbocker, H. J. Macfarland, Wm. Monro, Norman B. Ream, A. F. Seeberger, Moses J. Wentworth, and J. C. Whitney.

CHICAGO CLUB. MONROE ST.

CHICAGO CLUB.

THE Chicago Club is the oldest organization of the kind in the City, and among its list of members figure the names of a large majority of the gentlemen who are most prominent in business and social circles. The present Club, which had its origin in the old Dearborn Club, with headquarters on Michigan Avenue near Jackson Street, was incorporated in 1869. Its first club house was at the corner of Wabash Avenue and Eldridge Court. After the fire the present building was erected on Monroe Street, just opposite the Palmer House, an admirable situation, in the very centre of the business portion of the city. The interior is excellently arranged for the comfort and convenience of the members, with parlors, library, reading room, café, dining room, private supper rooms and sleeping apartments, all furnished with quiet and unostentatious elegance. The dining room and kitchen are at the top of the house, the cuisine being noted throughout clubland. The members of the Chicago claim, with pardonable pride, that in the excellence of its service and the perfection of its internal arrangements their Club is unequaled throughout the West. Unlike some of the other clubs, the Chicago is very strict in the exclusion of residents as visitors to the Club. The initiation fee is three hundred dollars, and the annual dues eighty dollars, payable semi-annually.

From 1869 to 1871, Mr. Ezra B. McCagg was President, and the three years following Mr. Philip A. Hall filled the office. Since 1875, Mr. Nathaniel K. Fairbank (who has been most instrumental in furthering the interests of the organization) has been its presiding officer. Mr. Robert T. Lincoln is the present Vice-President, and Mr. Frank A. Marsh the Secretary and Treasurer. The Executive Committee is composed of the following members: Messrs. Robert T. Lincoln, Frank A. Marsh, Henry Field, William H. Kellogg, George H. Wheeler, Erskine M. Phelps, Arthur J. Caton, Gustavus A. Schwartz and Perry Trumbull.

DOUGLAS CLUB.

DOUGLAS CLUB.

ORGANIZED in April, 1885, the Douglas Club has its quarters at 3518 Ellis Avenue. The house is a three story and basement frame building, which was formerly a dwelling, but which has been greatly added to and improved since the Club took possession. There is a handsome lawn on the front and sides of the house, with a fine tennis court.

The basement is devoted to the bowling alleys. On the first floor are the dancing hall, the ladies' reception room, the smoking room, the secretary's office, the library and the reading room. The second floor contains the dressing rooms and four private rooms. The third floor consists of a large hall, fitted up with a portable stage, scenery, etc., and where excellent dramatic entertainments are given by a corps selected from members of the Club.

The ladies of each member's family, and the males from fourteen to twenty-one years of age, are entitled to the privileges of the Club, subject to such restrictions as may be imposed by the directory. Until the 1st of May, 1888, the initiation fee was fifty dollars, but, at a meeting held on that date, it was voted to reduce it to twenty-five dollars, and the memberships were made transferable. The dues remain as they have always been, thirty dollars a year.

The President of the Douglas Club is Mr. John W. Hepburn; the Vice-Presidents are Messrs. George W. Ludlow, W. W. Watkins, and W. H. Hagedon; Treasurer, Mr. Frank E. Barnard, and Secretary, Mr. Melancthon Smith. The Board of Directors consists of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Spoor Mackey, Frank Baker, Frank Compton, Thomas B. McGovern, Rollin Sherman, Geo. W. Lawrence, S. H. Hale, John W. Hepburn, George W. Ludlow, W. W. Watkins, W. H. Hagedon, F. E. Barnard, and Melancthon Smith.

FARRAGUT BOAT CLUB.

FARRAGUT BOAT CLUB.

THE Farragut Boat Club was organized in 1872, and, as its name indicates, for the purpose of promoting the interests of boating. Beginning with a limited number of members, and a small boat house at the foot of Twelfth Street, it has gradually increased until it has reached its present flourishing condition. The present club house (at 3016 Lake Park Avenue) was completed in the spring of 1886. It is a handsome building of brick, with stone trimmings, and consisting of two stories and a basement.

In the basement are the bowling alley, the pool room and the lavatories. The first floor contains the parlors, the reception room, the billiard room, the card room, and the library. The second floor is devoted to the dancing hall and a perfectly appointed little theatre, with a full stock of scenery and properties, and a seating capacity of four hundred.

A series of entertainments are given here each winter, and the Farragut Boat Club Theatricals have become famous, attaining as they do to a pitch of excellence rarely reached by amateur efforts.

The boat house proper is a one story brick building, at the foot of Thirty-third Street. The Club owns about twenty-five boats, including an eight-oared barge, four-oared shells, four-oared gigs, single and double shells, single and double training boats, and pleasure boats of all descriptions. The initiation fee to the Farragut is fifty dollars and the dues are twenty-four dollars a year.

The Board of Management is composed of the following gentlemen: President, Mr. Henry C. Van Schaack; Vice-President, Mr. Harrison Kelley; Secretary, Mr. C. F. Bryant; Treasurer, Mr. F. M. Staples; Captain, Mr. George B. Jennison; Commander, Mr. Harry C. Avery; Lieutenant-Commander, Mr. John L. Corbett; Ensign, Mr. John M. Keogh; and Chairman of the Board of Admissions, Mr. Charles D. Hoard.

ILLINOIS CLUB.

ILLINOIS CLUB.

IN 1878, an organization was formed by prominent citizens of the West Side, and called the Illinois Club. Its purposes were the cultivation and promotion of literature and the fine arts and of social intercourse. A house was procured at No. 401 Washington Boulevard, and in May the Club took possession, remaining here until May, 1879, when it removed to the southwest corner of Ashland Avenue and Madison Street. In 1881, the property which is the present quarters of the Club (154 Ashland Avenue) was purchased, and, in 1884, a large addition was built. It is a fine roomy house, with every convenience and comfort, parlors, reading rooms, café, dining room, billiard room, bowling alley, private rooms, and a superb ball room.

The Illinois is the possessor of a fine collection of pictures, and its list of magazines and periodicals is the most complete of that of any club in the city.

Its entertainments given during the winter season are unrivalled in point of elegance and good taste. The admission fee to the Illinois is one hundred dollars, and the annual dues forty dollars.

Mr. John G. Rogers was the first President of the Club. The others have been Messrs. S. H. McCrea, Richard T. Crane, J. Harley Bradley, Simeon H. Crane, and Robert J. Smith. The present officers are as follows: President, Alson E. Clark; Vice-President, M. O. Brown; Treasurer, Wm. A. Hammond; Secretary, Chas. N. Bishop; Trustees, Messrs. A. E. Clark, M. O. Brown, W. A. Hammond, C. N. Bishop, S. P. McConnell, J. B. McDonald, J. W. Skinkle, C. K. G. Billings, Oscar Burdick, W. J. Wilson, Wm. Cochrane, I. H. Holden, and H. J. Jones.

INDIANA CLUB.

INDIANA CLUB.

THE Indiana Club was organized in 1883, for the purpose of promoting social intercourse among its members and their families. The Club occupies the premises at 3349 Indiana Avenue, a handsome and commodious two story brick house, furnished throughout with every comfort and luxury. The billiard and pool rooms, the bowling alley and the dressing rooms are on the first floor, and on the second floor are the parlor, the reception room, the card room and a spacious dancing hall. The Indiana is essentially a family club, the wives and children of the members being entitled to all its privileges.

During the course of the year, entertainments of various kinds, lectures, concerts and balls, are given under the auspices of the Club. The initiation fee is fifty dollars and the dues are twenty dollars a year.

Mr. William H. Harper was elected as the first President of the Indiana, and retained the office for three succeeding terms. Mr. Harper was also again elected in 1887. In 1886, Mr. E. F. Gorton filled the position.

The present management of the Club is as follows: President, Mr. C. E. Seaton; Vice-President, Mr. J. E. Kimball; Secretary, Mr. W. E. Frost; Treasurer, Mr. J. B. Marsh; Board of Directors, Messrs. J. M. Phelps; E. E. Barnard, H. H. Carr, James H. Cooley, J. H. Gilman, C. E. Seaton, J. E. Kimball, W. E. Frost, and J. B. Marsh.

KENWOOD CLUB.

KENWOOD CLUB.

LATE in 1883, Messrs. E. A. Potter, J. H. Long, J. P. Taylor, John Dunn, G. Steever, and several other gentlemen, residents of Kenwood, came together for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of establishing a social and family club in that beautiful suburb of Chicago. From this meeting resulted the present Kenwood Club, the organization of which was perfected in February, 1884. In June of the same year the Club took possession of the house on Forty-seventh Street, near Lake Avenue, which was formerly the residence of Norman B. Judd, Esq. To this house, a two story and basement frame building, a large addition, 40x75 feet, was made in the fall of 1886.

In the basement are situated the bowling alley, the dining room and the kitchens. On the first floor are the hall, the office, the reception room, and a splendid dancing hall which occupies the whole of the addition. The second floor is taken up by the card rooms, the billiard room, the reading room, the library, and ladies' and gentlemen's dressing rooms.

The ladies of the different members families are entitled to all the privileges of the Club, and they have established several musical and literary societies and art classes, which meet regularly in the Club house. The Kenwood has recently purchased a fine lot of land on the corner of Lake Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, adjoining its present location, where it is proposed to erect a new and handsome club house. The initiation fee of the Kenwood Club is one hundred dollars, and the annual dues are forty dollars.

Mr. Edwin A. Potter was the first President of the Club; Mr. Potter was succeeded by Mr. John Dunn, and Mr. Dunn in turn by Mr. John Driggs. The officers and directors for 1888-1889 are: President, Mr. Nathaniel S. Bouton; 1st Vice-President, Mr. J. B. Knight; 2d Vice-President, Mr. W. G. Purdy; Treasurer, Mr. S. H. Wright; Secretary, Mr. Charles Webster; Directors, Messrs. George R. Thorn, C. B. Van Kirk, M. W. Atwood, E. R. Woodle, W. W. Hunter, E. C. Potter, M. A. Fair, and F. W. Root.

LAKESIDE CLUB.

LAKESIDE CLUB.

THE Lakeside Club was organized in 1884, for the purpose of promoting social intercourse between its members and their families. Two houses were taken at the corner of Wabash Avenue and Thirtieth Street, and here the Club remained until 1888, when the new Club house on Indiana Avenue (between Thirty-first and Thirty-second Streets) was opened with a grand New Year ball. The present house is an imposing structure of brick and stone, containing three stories and a basement. In the basement are the billiard rooms, café, the bowling alley, private supper rooms, and a dining room capable of seating four hundred guests. On the first floor are situated the ladies' and gentlemen's parlors, the reception room, the dressing rooms, and a fine assembly room and dancing hall, fifty-five feet wide by one hundred feet long. In the second story are the card rooms and a splendid gymnasium complete in every detail. The third floor is devoted to private apartments and the servants rooms. Entertainments of various kinds are frequently given in the Club house and in particular the general gatherings every Thursday evening have proved highly successful. The initiation fee of the Lakeside Club is fifty dollars, and the dues are forty dollars a year.

The officers are as follows: President, Mr. L. M. Friedlander; Vice-President, Mr. M. L. Freiburger; Secretary, Mr. S. W. Rosenfels; and Treasurer, Mr. D. B. Falter. The Trustees are Messrs. Martin Barbe, Martin Meyer, H. Hefter, David Witkowsky, A. Mahler, E. A. Singer, C. Witkowsky and J. S. Mendelsohn.

LA SALLE CLUB.

LA SALLE CLUB.

THE LaSalle Club is a political and social organization. All the leading Republican politicians belong to it, and it is the centre of Republican activity in Chicago. Beginning in a humble way, the growth of the Club in prosperity and influence has been wonderful, until its membership now embraces the names of seven hundred and fifty men. Organized in 1884, the LaSalle Club began its existence in a few rooms at No. 9 Laflin Street. Thence it moved to No. 28 Warren Avenue, and early in 1888 it took possession of the fine building it now occupies, at 252 West Monroe Street, formerly the residence of C. C. Holton, Esq.

The house is of marble, three stories and a basement, a frontage of 125 feet and a depth of 95 feet, with addition, built by the Club, 48 feet by 125. In the basement are the lunch room, the café, cigar stand, gymnasium, and a magnificent bowling alley, containing five alleys and two shuffle boards. On the first story are the hall, two large parlors, the reading room and the office, and in the addition the billiard room, with twelve tables. The second story contains eighteen card rooms, and a superb assembly room in the addition. The third story is as yet unfinished. The house is very handsomely furnished throughout, and no pains are spared by the Board of Management to make the LaSalle one of the finest and most popular clubs in the city. The initiation fees and dues are comparatively small, the former being fifty dollars and the latter twenty dollars.

The first President of the LaSalle was E. Nelson Blake, who served two years; H. S. Burkhardt succeeded him, and Mr. Burkhardt was in turn succeeded by George H. Williams, the present incumbent. The Vice-Presidents are Messrs. D. B. Scully, William Law (Jr.), James M. Johnson, and John Spry. George B. Swift is Treasurer, and F. S. Cable is Secretary. The Board of Directors consists of Messrs. C. H. George, J. W. Wainright, G. W. Stanford, C. A. Dew, J. W. Fernald, Samuel Simons, W. D. Kent, D. E. Flannery and Col. A. H. Wheeler.

JOHN A. LOGAN CLUB.

THE John A. Logan Club, the youngest organization of the kind in the city, was chartered February 12th, 1888. Its objects are to promote the interests of the Republican party and to encourage the social and friendly intercourse of Republicans. A well furnished house at 466 La Salle Avenue has been procured, and much interest has been manifested and the list of members is constantly increasing. Embracing as it does, the names of the most prominent Republicans on the North Side, the Club is assured of success and will undoubtedly do good and effective work in the various campaigns. The admission fee is ten dollars and the dues twelve dollars a year.

Mr. Charles Catlin is the President; Mr. Frank M. Blair, Treasurer; Mr. Edward D. Cooke, Secretary; and Mr. Geo. S. Dickson, Corresponding Secretary. The Board of Directors is composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Samuel B. Raymond, Frank M. Blair, John J. Healey, James A. Sexton, Edward D. Cooke, Charles Catlin and J. A. LeBrun.

OAKLAND CLUB.

THE Oakland Club was incorporated November 1st, 1887, and about the same time purchased the building at the corner of Ellis and Oakwood Avenues, which was formerly the Lakeside Skating Rink. This building was entirely renovated and fitted up as a club house at a cost of ten thousand dollars. It is a large structure, built of brick, and two stories high. On the first floor are the office, the gentlemen's reading room, the ladies' reading room, a spacious promenade hall, two ladies' parlors, two gentlemen's sitting rooms, a billiard hall one hundred feet long, two card rooms, the kitchen, and a dancing hall one hundred feet by eighty. The second floor is only partially finished off, the chief apartment being the assembly room. The Oakland is distinctly a family club, all intoxicating liquors and games of chance being strictly prohibited. Many private and public entertainments are given at the club house in the course of the year, such as dancing parties, card parties, concerts and lectures. Saturday night is set apart for general gatherings. The initiation fee is fifty dollars and the annual dues are thirty dollars.

Mr. John R. Bensley, to whom much of the success of the Club is due, is the President. The other officers are: First Vice-President, Mr. Charles T. Teegs; Second Vice-President, Mr. James B. Mann; Treasurer, Mr. F. B. Ullery; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Thomas. The Directors are, in addition to the above gentlemen, Messrs. S. A. Maxwell, L. H. Bisbee, J. H. Trumbull, Wm. Turkington, J. H. Conrad, E. F. Gorton, Frank Shepard and W. A. Merigold.

THE OAKS CLUB.

THE Oaks was organized in January, 1882, and incorporated September 3d, 1884, its object being to promote social intercourse between its members and their families. In its early days the club occupied rooms in the Giles Block until the building was destroyed by fire November 13th, 1885, at which time it suffered the loss of all furniture and records. When the block was rebuilt it occupied a suite of rooms therein until the new Austin Club and Library Building was completed, into which they have recently moved. The apartments occupied by the Club consist of reception hall, parlors, card and billiard rooms, banquet hall, etc., also a beautiful and completely appointed theatre, all of which are furnished with much taste and elegance.

The officers of the Club are as follows : President, Mr. F. R. Shock; Vice-President, Mr. G. W. Church; Treasurer, Mr. C. S. Castle; Secretary, Mr. H. T. Emerson. Board of Directors, Messrs. P. V. Castle, R. H. Traill, E. G. Hobler. Executive Committee, Messrs. H. D. Schall, T. C. Hood and S. J. Crafts.

PARK CLUB.

THE Park Club had its beginning at a social gathering of the leading gentlemen of South Park early in the spring of 1886. Soon after, some fifty or sixty names being on the roll, the Club was regularly incorporated under the state laws of Illinois. The selection of its name was the natural sequence of its unrivalled location in the midst of the grand system of parks and boulevards, over whose thousands of acres of lawn and lake its windows look. While the majority of the members of the Park Club live in South Park and Hyde Park, there are many who are residents of the city, appreciating, as they do, the advantages of having a stopping place while driving to the parks. The Park is a family club, ladies being admitted to all its privileges. The Club building, four stories in height, is composed of brick and rough hewed stone. The basement is occupied by the bowling alleys, the pool room and the janitor's room. The first floor contains the parlor, ladies' reception room, the café and a handsome hall. On the second floor are located the billiard room, card rooms and director's room. Both these floors are entirely finished in red oak. The entire upper floor, with the exception of two small boudoirs, is thrown into a fine assembly room, with floor, walls and ceiling of white wood and southern pine. The spacious verandahs on the first and second floors are an attractive feature in the summer months. The admission fee to the Park is fifty dollars and the dues are twenty-five dollars a year.

The Club is under the management of the following gentlemen: President, Mr. Newton A. Partridge; 1st Vice-President, Mr. Henry S. Hawley; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. Melville E. Dayton; Treasurer, Mr. John E. Cornell; Assistant Secretary, Mr. John F. Gilchrist; Directors, Messrs. Henry F. Freeman, A. Judson Cole, Robert Boyd, Ernest W. Heath, Fred. K. Root, T. W. Hamill, Wm. UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

THE purposes of the Union League Club of Chicago (which was incorporated in 1879, and began its existence in a modest suit of rooms in the Honoré Block, on Dearborn Street,) are to encourage and promote by moral, social and political influence, unconditioned loyalty to the Federal Government, and to defend and protect the integrity and prosperity of this Nation; to inculcate a higher appreciation of the value and sacred obligations of American citizenship; to maintain the civil and political equality of all citizens in every section of our common country, and to aid in the enforcement of all laws enacted to preserve the purity of the ballot box, to resist and expose corruption, and promote economy in office, and to secure honesty and efficiency in the administration of national, state and municipal affairs. Absolute and unqualified loyalty to the Government of the United States is a condition of membership. While the personnel of the Union League is largely Republican, its list of members is by no means confined to that party. By a wise and judicious action and expression of opinion, the Club has made itself a power.

Its house, one of the finest in Chicago, arranged and furnished with every comfort and luxury, is situated on Jackson Street and Fourth Avenue, close to the Board of Trade. There is a Ladies' Department of the Club, to which ladies holding cards issued by the management are admitted. The east entrance is exclusively reserved for ladies and gentlemen accompanying them. The initiation fee of the Union League is two hundred dollars and the yearly dues eighty dollars.

The Presidents of the Club since its organization have been Lewis C. Coburn, John C. Coonley (two years), Elbridge G. Keith, J. McGregor Adams (three years), and George W. Smith. General John L. Thompson, who was elected President for 1888, died shortly after his election, and First Vice-President Franklin H. Head is now acting President. Mr. Albert L. Coe is Second Vice-President, Mr. Rollin A. Keyes, Treasurer, and Mr. Henry M. Bacon, Secretary. Messrs. J. Harley Bradley, Ferd. W. Peck, Simeon H. Crane, Amos J. Harding, John J. Knickerbocker, and Ernest A. Hamill compose the Board of Directors.

UNION CLUB.

UNION CLUB.

THE Union Club was organized in 1878, and had its quarters for the first year of its existence at the corner of North State Street and Chicago Avenue. In 1879 it took possession of the Ogden Estate, on Washington Place, where it rapidly increased in membership, influence and wealth: the beautiful grounds and the lawn concerts given from time to time proving potent attractions. In 1881, the present handsome club house was built.

Admirably situated on Washington Place (at the corner of Dearborn Avenue) it attracts the attention of every passer-by by the grace and beauty of its proportions. As you pass through the broad front door, you enter a spacious hall with walls and ceiling of exquisitely carved oak. To the left of the hall are broad parlors, extending the length of the Dearborn Avenue side, and behind the parlors is the cafe, with its large bow window looking down the Avenue. On this floor are also the billiard room, the reading room, coat room and lavatory. The second floor is occupied by the dining room, card rooms, and the directors' room, while the third floor is devoted to the private rooms of the members. In the basement are the kitchen and servants' apartments, and also a well-appointed bowling alley.

The first President of the Club was Mr. Henry W. Bishop, who held that office for six consecutive years. In 1884, Mr. Bishop retiring, Mr. Augustus A. Carpenter was elected President, and re-elected in 1885. In 1886 and 1887, Mr. Abbot L. Adams filled the office. The present incumbent is Mr. J. McGregor Adams, with Mr. Milton C. Lightner as Vice-President, Mr. John R. Gott as Secretary, and Mr. Henry A. Keith as Treasurer. The Board of Directors comprises the following gentlemen: Messrs. Milton C. Lightner, Augustus H. Burley, Jacob C. Breese, Leslie Carter, Andrew J. Marble, James T. Howe, Edward F. Lawrence, Edward F. Comstock, and James R. McKay.

The Union is purely a social club. The admission fee is one hundred dollars, and the yearly dues sixty dollars.

UNIVERSITY CLUB.

IN the early part of 1887, a project was formed to organize a club to be composed exclusively of men who had received a degree from a university or college. This plan met with great favor, the applications for membership were large, and in February a charter was obtained. Temporary quarters were procured at 125 Dearborn Street, and the rooms handsomely fitted up. The total membership is now three hundred and seventy, and every college of any prominence is represented. Although the University is still in its infancy its prospects are very bright, and there is every reason to believe that it will in a short time equal its sister organizations in other large cities. The initiation fee has been fixed at one hundred dollars and the annual dues at sixty dollars.

The officers of the Club are: President, Edward G. Mason; Vice-President, Henry W. Bishop; Secretary, Heyliger A. DeWindt; Treasurer, Wirt D. Walker; Directors, Wm. A. Furness, J. L. Lincoln, Jr., C. H. McCormick, Wm. M. LeMoyne, James S. Morton, Robert F. Shanklin, and Henry B. Stone.

WASHINGTON PARK CLUB HOUSE.

WASHINGTON PARK CLUB.

THE objects of the organization called the Washington Park Club, which was incorporated in 1883, are to promote good fellowship among its members by providing a club house and pleasure grounds for their entertainment where at all times they may meet for social intercourse, and to encourage, by providing the proper facilities, raising, improving, breeding, training and exhibiting horses, at meetings to be held at stated times in each year. The Club House at Sixty-first Street and South Park Avenue is a low, long, rambling two story building, with broad piazzas on all sides of the house. From its situation, within easy driving distance from the centre of the city, and with its beautiful grounds, the Washington Park offers all the advantages of a country club, such as have become so popular of late in the leading eastern cities. The race course, with all its appurtenances, is one of the finest in the country. The racing meetings have been pre-eminently successful, and the Club, by its energy and wisdom, has done much to improve and elevate the sport. Aside from this, the Club offers many attractions in its handsome house and the excellence of its service and cuisine. The initiation fee is one hundred and fifty dollars, from the payment of which, however, subscribers for one thousand dollars or more of the original capital stock of the organization, are exempt. The dues are forty dollars a year. The families of the various members, with the exception of sons who have attained the age of twenty-one years, are entitled to all the privileges of the Club.

Owing to the death of General Philip H. Sheridan, the office of President is at present vacant. The Vice-Presidents are Messrs. Samuel W. Allerton, Albert S. Gage, Charles Schwartz and Columbus R. Cummings; Treasurer, John K. Walsh; Secretary, John E. Brewster; Messrs. Norman B. Ream, James W. Oakley, Charles J. Barnes, J. Henry Norton, Samuel H. Sweet, George H. Wheeler, Charles J. Singer, John E. Brewster, Wirt D. Walker, John B. Carson, James Van Inwagen, Charles D. Hamill, John Dupee (Jr.), John H. McAvoy, Thomas Cratty, Charles Schwartz, Nathaniel K. Fairbank, Samuel W. Allerton, Columbus R. Cummings, John R. Walsh, Albert S. Gage, Henry J. Macfarland, and Thomas Murdoch, comprise the Board of Directors.
